A New Villainy.

Chattanoga, October 27.—A startling emsation has just come to light in this city howing the infamous methods the republicans are pursuing to accomplish party and deluded by a certain W. F. Fisher, who in this city, who have been misled and deluded by a certain W. F. Fisher, who is, no doubt, in the employ of the republican party. His purpose was, by false representation, to entice democratic voters way from Hamilton county, Ohio, to a distance that it would be impossible for them to reurn in time to vote in November. He did his in an easy manner, as the affidavits worn to and certified by the clerk and master of this county prove. He would ead them from home without enough funds o sustain them a week, taking them in many instances from their families. The worn of the feature and the of the candidate.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat, rep.

The registration lists of the city of New York, which closed on Saturday, contain 216,974 names against 183,041 in 1876. The total vote in 1876 was 112,530 against 68,561 for Mr. Hayes, and 229 for Peter Cooper. Mr. Tiden's majority was 60,556, against 43,047 for Mr. Kelly and 46,322 for Mr. Cornell. Adding the Robin-cratic majority last year was 57,281, an increase of 3,601 over the majority of 1876, in the total vote so getter, and subtract majority and kelly vote together, and subtract was wholly due to the superlative didocy of the "young scratchers" who re ver, does not tend to show that the republican master of this county prove. His purpose was, by false representation, to entice democratic voters away from Hamilton county, Ohio, to a point at such a distance that it would be impossible for them to return in time to vote in November. He did this in an easy manner, as the affidavits sworn to and certified by the clerk and master of this county prove. He would lead them from home without enough funds to sustain them a week, taking them in many instances from their families. The men are now in this city, without money or work. There are about thirty here, representing all professions. An effort will be made to find some of them employment, and others will be returned home. Fisher pursued the following tactics as is sworn to by the men in this city: By frequenting points where worknen were work to recort and by a course of careless questioning, he would draw from all their party preferences, talking to only two or three at the same place. If he found any who declared themselves democrats, he would declare himself representing some Chattanooga industry, using a different one on each occasion, and state that he was in search of hands, and preferred democrats, as they could work better in the sonth. He promised high wages, and offered free passes to this city to all who in the south. He promised high wages, and offered free passes to this city to all who would accept his proposition; and, to destroy all suspicion, he agreed to accompany them here, and pay their board until they could save sufficient to pay it themselves. These liberal proposals were gladly accepted by all with whom he treated. Once on the train, he would trump up some excuse to withdraw from the train, and that was the last seen of him. These facts are all sworn to, and the c-rtified affidavits are in the possession of Msjor T. M. McConnell, chairman of the democratic executive committee of the third Tennessee district.

secretary of the state democratic commit week Mr. S. J. Tilden will publish an address to the public, in which he will set forth at length his views on current political affairs and his reasons for urging upon the voters of the country the support of the democratic ticket. The forthcoming paper from the retired democratic statesman is greatly desired by the leaders at the democratic headquarters, who expect that Mr. Tilden will make the most succinct and forcible and the ablest presentation of democratic claims of the campaign. Mr. Tilden, adds Mr. Fowler, has contributed liberally toward expenses of the campaign, and both the national and state committees are indebted to him for many excellent suggestions as to the management of the canvass. He has been considerably disturbed by the statements made in some papers that he left no interest in Hancock's success, and that he had something to do with certain severe criticisms of the party which have recently appeared in the Sun. He denies that he had any knowledge of these criticisms previous to their prolitication. He has improved a great deal in health since last summer.

They point to the fact that the roll of northern states which Hancock has me even chance of carrying has been swelled very much, now embracing Maine, New Hampshire, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Indiana, California and Oregon. New York, New Jersey and one more are all that are necessary to win the battle.

One of the most confident men at the headquarters last night was Samuel J. Randall. In a private conversation, not intended for the public ear, he expressed himself as really expecting to see General Hancock elected. It is in such private talks that the democratic managers convince visitors of their sincerity. The reasons they gave are that daily advices, from trusted agents, attest that the tariff argument has spent its force, and is more than d'scounted by Garfield's now well established Chinese immigration views; that the people have become convinced that the so called republican victory in Indiana was gained by unblushing frands; that republican bull-dozing by employers is reacting upon the party and making votes for Hancock; that the evidences of the republican attempt to colonize voters in New York city on Tuesday next; and that, with a thoroughly united party, should give Hancock about 65,000 majority and send him to Albany with not face for mayor will increase Hancock's vote, and the democrats that the nomination of frace for mayor will increase Hancock's vote, and it is sopatively diminish Hancock's vote, and the democratic are quietly but earnestly, watching every sign of the times and are missing no chances. VICTORIA'S LAST FIGHT.

How Colonel Terrasas Took the Indian's Scalp.
CHICAGO, October 27.—A dispatch received at military headquarters yesterday gives particulars of Colonel Joachim Terrasal success gives particulars of Celonel Joachim Terrasa's victory over Victoria's band of Indians. The Mexicans attacked Victoria in Castillo mountains, surrounding bis fortified position, and by simultaneous attack captured it. Victoria and 60 warriors, with 18 women and children, were left dead on the field. Sixty-eight women and children and two white captives were taken and 168 animals recovered, with all the arms and plunder. Terrasas lost three men and twelve wounded. Thirty Indins escaped through being too late on the ground. Buell, through whose hands the dispatch passed, says this is one of the results of our movement into Mexico, and virtually ends the war with Victoria. I thick I shall be able to head the small party that escaped. I shall reorganize here, having columns for operations both east and west. shall reorganize here, having operations both east and west.

Sprague did send, by way of a joke, to a l newspaper friend here, the caliber of the gun that he had on hand to defend himself with. Mr. Thompson wished to be sure, Governor Sprague's friends say, that he might not be mulcted in damages for what it was desired him to do.

The governor's friends claim to have received information that Mr. Thompson notified Mr. Corbin that he must be amply protected before he took any steps. The governor and his friends believe that Mr. Corbin has given a bond, or has deposited securities to indemnify Mr. Thompson, and they assert that Mr. Corbin arrived in town this afternoon. If he did he has not gone to any of the hotels, nor did he go to Canonchet with Mr. Thompson this evening.

It is thought that Mr. Thompson will to-morrow proceed to Canonchet, probably in the company of the sheriff, and demand possession. This will be denied. What will follow? Dr. Greene says that papers are made out which will cause the arrest not only of Mr. Thompson, but of Mr. Corbin, Mr. Hazard and Trustee Chaffee, if any forcible act is attempted. They will be charged with conspiracy. Governor Sprague believes that one purpose they have is to prevent his voting at the meeting of the stockholders of the First National bank on Thursday next. This is the bank which has had embarrassments, and which was heavily loaded with the Spragues' paper.

The same friend tells something interesting of the famous shot-gun incident. He says that it would have been a tragedy but for an accident. Speaking of the gun one day to Willie Sprague, the friend said: "It wasn't loaded, was it?" "Yes it was." Willie replied: "I saw papa cast the slugs and put two slugs in each barrel." This developed the fact that Governor Sprague, in his excitement on that occasion, forgot to cap the gun, and that he did pull the trigger, but the hammer fell on a capless nipple. orner of Seventh avenue and Twelfth street, Brooklyn, together with a large quantity of valuable machinery and stock was totally destroyed by fire at 2 o'clock this morning. The fire is believed to be of incendiary origin, as it started in the reading room in the corner of the building where there was nothing of an inflammable nature. The total loss is estimated about nature. The total loss is estimated about $750,000; insurance about $250,000. About 1,000 hands are thrown out of employment by the fire.

The loss will probably be one million dollars, while the insurance is said to be only a couple of hundred thousand dollars, perhaps less.

The factory was put there two years agout to enhance the value of a great tract of land owned by the projectors. The main building covered fifty city lots. A number of private houses, occupied chiefly by employes of the factory, were badly damaged. Fifteen engines worked on the flames, but the fire was not stayed until everything upon which it could feed was destroyed.

The fire was immediately preceded by an explosion, which is thought to have been caused by gas, about two o'clock this morning. The watchman was then on his rounds through the building. He gave the alarm immediately. Before a sufficient number of engines to effectively battle with the flames could reach the spot the whole building, a five-story structure, was enveloped in fire, throwing out such intense heat that the firemen could not get near enough to the burning pile to do grol service. The works had been in operation about fourteen months and the building and machinery originally cost over one-half million dellars. From time to time additional machinery priginally cost over one-half million dellars. From time to time additional machinery has been added and improvements made until it is said the works were the most complete in the country. The superintendent of the works says it is not likely the factory will be rebuilt on the same site, but the company will put up another factory as soon as they can settle up their business. He did not know the amount of insurance or in what companies they were insured, but he could safely say that nearly every New York and Brooklyn, as well as some foreign companies, had taken risks. The company manufactured their gas and had their own gas retort. Last night, it is said, before the workmen left the gas got low and began to flicker. It Cornelus Lynch, a young Irishman, worked for the family. Sarah Lyon, a handsome girl, was a servant in the family. Both Martin Battles and the hired man, Lynch, were in love with the girl. They quarrelled over her, and one day Battles shot and killed his rival. He was tried and convicted of murder in the first degree, and sentenced to one year in the Auburn penitentiary, and then to be hanged. This was required by a statute then just passed. His case was brought before the court of appeals. The court decided that the act of the legislature was unconstitutional, and Battles was set at liberty. He enlisted in the union army and served through the late war. He then returned home. He declared that be was constantly haunted by the presence of the man he had killed, and he was sorry that the sentence of the law had not been carried out. He endeavored to have himself placed on trial again, hoping that he would be reconvicted and hanged. He finally became a maniac, and was placed in the Western asylum for the insane. He is still an inmate of that institution, and imagines that his victim is al ways present in his cell for the purpose of mocking and torturing him. He at times throws himself on his knees and begs Lynch to Kill him. Although only forty years of age, his hair is as white as a man's of 70. Every day is one of terror to him.

in their possession, have no doubt but that it is his letter.

His signatures vary in some respects, but in all of them he writes J. A. G. without a break. He then writes the balance of his name without a break. The use of the expression, "I take it," is one of Garfield's pet phrases. The word "conserved" is exactly the kind of high-flown diction heems ploys in debate. The word "companys," which he spells with a "y" in this letter, so far from being an argument against the genuineness, is the strongest possible argument in its favor. Any one forging such a letter would have been eareful to spell every word correctly, and also to put the dot over the "i' in Garfield's name in the right place. The misplacing of the dot of the "i' is just one of those things that would happen to a rectly, and also to put the dot over the "i" in Garfield's name in the right place. The misplacing of the dot of the "i" is just one of those things that would happen to a member of congress writing in a hurry. The spelling of the word "companys" with a "y" is exactly the way in which Mr. Garfield spells the word. That he misspells other words is shown by the New York World to day.

The general tone of the letter indicates that it was written by a man who, asshown by his recent interview in the Cleveland Leader, is in favor of admitting the regular Chinese in any numbers, and who dashed off, in a brief and condensed form, his reasons for resisting measures of restriction. Had one been preparing a spurious letter, he would have written one of greater length. The structure of the sentences, the use of high-sounding and grand words where simpler ones would answer, all mark the letter as indisputably that of General Garfield.

The rumor here is that General Butler furnished the letter for publication. If this be so, Butler will undoubtedly prove it; for he seldom does anything with his eyes shut, and never makes a move in a personal sense against an adversary unless he is fortified at every point.

The South American War. Six years ago Bolivia and Chili held jointly the province of Atacama, or both claimed an interest in it. It was Bolivia's only outlet to the sea, and is rich in mines of silver and nitre. Chili in 1874 ceded all her interest in the province to Bolivia, the latter agreein return to protect the Chilian miners, and not to tax the results of their work. This was in 1874. In 1877 Bolivia less of her treaty obligations, did levy an export tax on the question. This she unquestionably did at the instance of Peru, a re public that also contains rich mines of nitre, all of which the government bad ourchased, and from the product of which it desired to collect all the reveue that it possibly could. To do so Peru wanted to increase the price of nitre from the Chilian mines in Bolivia. Chili at once declared war against both Peru and Bolivia; and it is no exaggera tion to say that in less than two years she has annihilated the Peruvian navy, and almost wiped out the armies coast line of the two republics is at the mercy of Chili, and the interior is only comparatively safe because of its inacces sibility. On Monday evening at about one o'clock (evening always succeeds the dinner hour at the south we arrived at Atlanta, a city of about 40.000 in-abitants, and much resembling, in the minds of some, the city of Hartford. Here we found, in waiting a delegation of the "Gate City Guard" ready to escort the millitary to the camp ground, and the invited guests to the leading hotels where accommodations had been secured for them. As we marched through the streets we saw conspicuously posted upon many banners and flags the word "Welcome," upon some the word "Atlanta verclomes the soldiers of the north," while upon theirs were pictures of the blue and the gray it as the act of classing hands. Uncle Sam has been thrifty this year and has already paid off the small sum of $103,71,110 of old debts. The interest paid on these bonds, which have been brought up before they were due, has been $5,817,0 for annum, and the payment of the bonds adds just that much yearly to the national income. There is something eminently gratifying in a saving that will run up close to $7,000,000 by the end of the year, but it is barely possible that the country would be a trifle better off in the long run if it were not in such desperate haste to wipe out its debt. We shall have paid off at the end of this year something like $130,000,000 of our bonded debt, and it is fairly certain that twenty or thirty millions of this money expended in the improvement of the Mississippi river, would have yieled very much handsomer results in the course of half a century than devoted to the payment of a debt which is not especially burdensome in the present condition of the country.

Agent Berry, having made all his arrangements about his agency affairs, has concluded to give himself up to the United States marshal. How the Betting Runs.

A Bad Year for Prophets. The denocrats are picking up heart a little as the October elections recede. But there are no ontward signs of a turn in the popular current Experienced observers at Washington. New York and Boston are declaring Garfield already elected. It may be remarked that this has proven a bad year for political prophets.

An Interesting Fact. St. Paul Globe.
Indiana is not the United States.

The Loom of Life.

Busily, ceaselessly, goes the loom, In the light of day and the midnight's gloo And the wheels are turning early and late, And the woof is wound in the warp of fate. Click, click!—there's a thread of love wover Click, click!—another of wrong and sin: what a checkered thing this life will be When we see it unrolled in eternity!

When shall this wonderful web be done? In a thousand years, perhaps, in one: Or to morrow? Who knoweth? Not thou no But the wheels turn on and the shuttles fly. Ab, sad-eyed weavers, the years are slow, But each one is nearer the end, I know; And soon the last thread shall be wovon i God grant it be love instead of sin.

Are we spinners of good in this life-well Do we furnish the weaver a thread each It were better, O, my friends, to spin A beautiful thread than a thread of sin. - How foolish are the endeavors of par-ties to introduce new remedies for coughs and kindred complaints when they should know that the people will have Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup and nothing else.

The number of Americans established in business in London is greater than that of the American colony in Paris. The Parisian Americans are, for the most part, free from business cares, only a few artists and literary men being professionally occupied on the banks of the Seine.

AN OUTRAGE.

Fort Valley Mirror.

On Tuesday night some persons, supposed to be negroes, went around town and deposited at each store door and gate-post in the town lightwood splinters and matches, intimating thereby a threat to burn the town. The supposed cause of this outrage is that it is said by several negroes that a negro man arrested for stealing a lot of money from Mr. Watson, of Crawford county, who had been placed in our guard-house, but afterward delivered to the authorities of Crawford county, had, while on the way to Knoxville, been taken away from the constable and whipped and otherwise maltreated, to make him confess and return the money, and was afterwards retu ned to our guard-house and tied to a tree in front. We have no evidence but the statement of the prisoner, who said they abused him and returned him to Fort Valley and tied him to the tree, and left him with the remark for him to tell those who released him he was not guilty. Now be it known, that this offense, if committed, was done by citizens not of our county and outside of our county. If it is true it shows a contemptible spirit on the part of those engaged in the offense to saddle their misdeeds on Fort Valley, and it is one we will not tamely submit to.

THE "CITY OF AUGUSTA."

Savannah Newa.

Savannah News.

A friend in New York city sends us the followng account of the steamship City of Augusta, which arrived in that harbor on Friday last on her last trip from Chester, Penu. The fine steamship first trip from Chester, Penn. The fine steamship "City of Augusta" arrived at New York on Friday evening, 22d inst., having made the run from Chester here on her trial trip in 21 hours, steaming time. Her average speed from Roach's yard to Capes of the Delawa'e, with her machinery stiff and untified, was ten miles an hour, under a pressure of sixty pounds of steam, and an average of thirty-nine turns of the wheel per minute. Passing out to sea from the capes, her compasses were adjusted, and she proceded on thereafter to New York, making fourteen knots, under an increased pressure to the quartantine station. The performance of the ship has proved most satisfactory in every respect, and your people may well be proud of such accession to the Ocean line of steamers halling from Savanyour people may well be proud of such accession to the Ocean line of steamers hailing from Savan-nah. Her dimensions and working capacity are hereby appended: Length on 12 foot water line, 30 feet; length over all, 323 feet; beam, 40 feet; depth of hole, 25 feet 9 inches; compound engines inverted cylinders, 42% and 82 inches in diameter; 54 inches stroke of piston; six steel boilers, twelve feet aix inches in diameter, eleven feet five inches long, working pressure one hundred pounds to the square inch, three furnaces on each boiler. One superheater boiler twelve feet three inches, thirteen feet high, with the finest interior decorations of any steamer ever built in America. She has three decks. With her powerful engines and fine model it is estimated that if desirable she can make the run from New York to rable she can make the run from New York to annah in forty-eight hours. The ship is coner-rigged, with a squaresail yard forward school-rigged, with a squaresan yan forward to use or lower at pleasure. In general appearance the vessel is a very handsome one. As she lies moored in the dock alongside the "Savannah," the latter looks like a cockle boat to her. She worked with greatease at sea, and in docking her at place 2. North boars a trace. her at pier 35, North river, she was handled with the same same as the other steamers. Captain Nickerson came around in command. He has his first and second officers and quartermaster from the Columbus, and to complete the outfit Mr. Bob Saussy will, in due time, be assigned to her. In Sausy will, in due time, be assigned to her. In consequence of the heavy accumulation of cotton awaiting transportation at Savannah, the upholstering and finishing touches of cabin equipments will be deferred for the present, and as soon as the forcing pumps and some small alterations are completed in the engine room, the ships will sail for Savannah, probably on next Tuesday afternoon, the 25th inst.

DOWN IN A WELL.

Augusta Evening News.

Between ten and eleven o'clock Eunday morning, Mrs. Rolliman, of Thomson, attempted suicide by drowning in a well. It seems that for some time past in consequence of ill health she has made threats of self-destruction, and has made threats of self-destruction, and has made several attempts in this direction. At the hour mentioned Sunday she went to an adjoining lot, from whence the people had all gone to church, and let herself down with the bucket and rope. She was soon missed and an alarm was raised, and elter self down with the bucket and rope. She was soon missed and an alarm was raised, and selfer she was revived, she you woman at the bottom holding on to the rope. With some assistance he succeeded in drawing her up, but she was nearly dead with cold. It seems that after taking a plunge the action of the was so paralized by the fall, with the load on her shoulders, that she could not rise. She suffered the water restored her to reason, when ahe raised the outcry for help. At last accounts she was in a precarious condition.

KILLING A BEAR. RILLING A BEAR.

Brunswick Advertiser.

Although not hunted regularly as deer, many are nevertheless found and killed every year. A colored man had an encounter with one a few mornings ago that is worth narrating. The negro was crossing over to Butler's island in a little boat just at daylight. Mrs. Bruin, too, had concluded the control of the company, was called to the chair, and Private John A. Roberson was requested to act as secretary.

He at once notified the corner, who, being sick, Magistrate Woodhouse was deputised to hold the in quest. It was impossible, owing to the decomposed state of the remains, to determine whether they were those of a white or black infant, and as nothing was elicited at the inquest to show from whence it came, the jury were unable to render any verdict other than that, in their judgment, the remains were those of an infant prematurely born.

their lives in the Chattahoochee river near the point known as Culpepper's island under the most unexpected circumstances that could be imagined. Mr. M. L. Nesbet and a negro man were during duck down the river and when near Culpepper's island they met the steamer Wylly on her trip up to this city. At this point the curter tent is very strong and there had lodged a pile of drift wood which caused what is generally called a suckhole in the water. While the men were looking at the boat their batteau was drawn into the suckhole and almost in the twinkling of an eye the batteau and both men were carried beneath the water. The officers on the Wylly were looking at them at the time, and it was several minutes before water. The officers on the Wylly were looking at them at the time, and it was several minutes before either of the " was seen again. The negro was the first to get his head above water, which he fortunately did near the pile of wood, and in a little time Mr. Nesbet happened to the same good luck. The boat went under to remain, and was not seen afterward. As the boat went down Mr. Nesbet's gun was thrown on the drift wood and was thus saved from sinking with the tateau.

This was indeed a narrow and fortunate escape, as these suckholes are considered very dangerous places, and those who get into them seldom get out alive. It was extremely fortunate that they arose to the surface so near the driftwood, or the community would have been deprived of a most community would have been deprived of a most excellent citizen.

THE HILL-JEMISON SHOOTING AFFAIR-MR.

Macon Telegraph.
Yesterday the condition of Mr. Jemison was the resteriary for condition are Jermann was the subject of general inquiry throughout the city. No decided change has taken place since the first shock of the shot passed away, and strong hopes are entertained that none of the wounds are likely to prove fatal. There are four distinct wounds possible to find out what direction the bulle possible to find out what direction the bullet in the side took. It has apparently gone straight in, but the probe, as far as inserted, shows a dif-ferent course, and it is possible that the leaf has ranged in a lateral direction without penetrating the cavits. The wounded man is cheerful, and converses freely. He has been removed to Mr. Burr Brown's room, where he will receive every attention.

THE COTTON MARKET.

New York—The futures market opened barely lower and continued quiet and steady during the greater part of the morning. Subsequently a detard of the morning. Subsequently a devance. Later in the day and at the close the months sustained a moderate loss. October and November, however, continued at a higher range th; oughout the day and closed a fraction above yesterday's closing figures. For some time past the cotton market has been remarkably quiet, but it is thought we are soon to see a more active market. From the general indications the bulls and bears had a desperate struggle on October to-day and are rapidly approaching a point for more important contests. Spots—The market opened easy; at noon a dull tone was reported with quotations down 1-16c. At the close a better tone prevailed; middling il 1-16c. Not receding for four days amount to 1£6,125 bales; exports 100,074 bales; stock 597,239 bales.

beyond all doubt, smoother and stronger than all competitors.

This is no idle boast, and we would take it as a special favor if every lady in Atlanta would only try for once, a sample of this unrivalled sewing machine thread. To avoid mistakes, remember the O. N. T. is wound on a neat white spool, and the bottom label of every spool is branded O. N. T. A full assortment of this celebrated spool cotton, in white, black, and colors, to be had at the popular dry goods house of John Keelt, 58, 60, 62, 64 Whitehall street. oct27—dlw 4th page 1st or 2d col.

Hon. James T. Willis, of Talbot.

Hon. James T. Willis, of Talbot.

This gentleman is a prominent candidate for the judgeship of the Chattahoochee circuit, with brilliant chances of success. There is no man in Georgia who will offer before the next legislature for any position who is purer, better or abler than Mr. Willis. He is one of the leading lawyers of his section of the state, whose reputation as an attorney and advocate is not bounded by county lines, but extends all over the state. He is not an office seeker nor politician, the proceedings. His ambition has always been in his profession, to which he has devoted the best years of his life, and if there is any man in Georgia who ought to be elevated to the high position of judge, that man is James T. Willis, of Talbot. He has a ways shown himself to be a man of nerve, ability, purity and sincerity of purpose, giving no more striking illustration of these good qualities of head and heart than in the late unfortunate political contect in our state, when he sacrificed his personal preferences and his personal feelings and joined the majority in the convention, in order to try and save the grand old democratic party of the state. He was carnest; he was true; he was sincere in his action, and no honest, reasonable, impartial man can blame him or question the pure motives of an honest heart such as throbs in the breast of James T. Willis, If he should be elected to the office of judge of the superior court of the Chattahoochee circuit, the people of that circuit and of the whole state will have just cause to be proud of the selection of 25 good and so pure a man. We have said this much with no desire to disparage the candidacy of any other gentlemen who are in the field for the same office, but from an honest sense of justice due to the superior ability of the subject of ghis notice.

Cuantaraboolness.

BENEATH A BALE.

Yesterday evening an accident occurred on Castleberry Hill, which came near ending the life of S. C. Evans, of Clayton county. Mr. Evans was sitting on top of a bale of cotton and driving his team, when one of the wheels fell into an ugly hole, toesing Evans to the ground and throwing the bale of cotton upon him.

Fortunately only his shoulders were struck by the bale in its descent, but that was enough to cause an almost total paralysis of his limbs.

The unfortunate gentleman was picked up and taken into Pescock's drug-store, where Drs. Logan and Curtis gave him every possible attention.

The full extent of his injuries were not ascertained, but enough is known to warrant the assertion that Evans is in a dangerous condition.

FAIR FLASHES. -It won't rain until the fair is over. -The remarkable Smith family continue attract crowds.

-Nothing wrong about the fair now how can an auctioneer? -That Japanese wrapper will be raffled this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

—Go to the fair after the minstrels to-night and get a good supper. —The brightest girl at the fair is a Jewess. Such eyes, and such manners! -The cigar stand deserves a good puff for oing such a brisk business.

-Miss Ida Duncan got the diamond ring at the military booth last night. —All who bought things at auction last night breg of excellent bargains. —Everybody should buy some of that fine fruit. Especially those who can.

The domestic venture at the refresh-ment department will be auctioned off to-night. Sacks of flour, pineapple cheese and canned fruit. —Lieutenar: Hewitt ought to be pre-sented with a brown-stone front for the faithfulness and modesty with which he has toiled for the guard. —We desire to give three cheers for Mrs. Turpin who so gracefully serves up the de-licious bivalves and hot coffee at the re-freshment department.

SIDEWALK NOTES.

-A newly overhauled car has been put on the Decatur street car line. —Pine street has been put in excellen condition by the street force. -Mrs. C. W. Johnson, of Stone Mountain, will move to Atlanta next week. —A new house for Mr. George E. John-op, on Luckie street, is nearly completed.

—Choctaw Tribe I. O. R. M., will move into their new wigwam on Decaturstreet in a few days. —The Irving club will meet at the residence of Miss Lenora Bigham, 112 Gilmer street, Friday night.

—Work has been commenced on the iron front which will be placed in the Longley & Robinson building on Decatur street.

—A wagon loaded with cotton belonging to Mr. Miles Hairston, of DeKalb county, broke down on Decatur street yesterday. —We were glad to meet Mr. Ed L. Boom, dvance agent of the Ada Gray-Watkins fifth avenue conibination, last night. His roups will be here November 8th.

—A street force, under Mr. E. A. Griffin, is engaged in putting Pine street in good condition, but the junction of Walker and Nelson streets still remains a mud puddle. —The cold weather has brought its supply of Neuralgia and Headache. But none need suffer long. Neuralgiae will soon care all their aches and pains. Thousands testify to its virtues. Why not you?

-W. W. Thurman who was shot during the fair, is able to be out, having received skillful treatment at the hands of Doctors Dean and Gilbert. His wound was probed but the ball could not be found.

The above popular organization will occupy DeGive's opera-house the evening of the 3d of November. This company is now much stronger than on their former visit. Benedict and Henshaw, end men, are hard to beat in their new jokes. The confedians Quilter and Goldrich are excellent in their specialties. Miss Lisa Weber is a company in herself. Benedict is funny. Miss Rosa Lee sings well. Bordeaux sisters are superb dancers. While Mortimer, Edwards and Ten Brocck are pleasing vocalists. There is a pleasing variety, both in the songs, sketches and dancing. Nothing unchaste is presented, as the company depend on merit alone.

One of the most sparkling and entertain One of the most sparkling and entertaining plays of the season was presented at the opera house last night. "Freaks" in all its appeintments is a good play to amuse and please. The company which played it here last night was exceedingly strong.

The characters were all good except Mary Stuart as the author, and she was superb. She is a sister of Stuart Robson, the best comedian in America, and has a full share of the same talent that has made him famous. Wherever "Freaks" goes it will entertain and leave a happy impression.

NEW YORK, October 27 — The stock marke opened strong and a fraction higher, but subs iently declined 1/8 to 13/4 per cent. At the firs board a strong tone prevailed and the prices ad-vanced sharply throughout the entire list. In the late dealings sales to realize profits caused a reaction of 1/4 to 11/4 per cent.
